Revision Of U. S. Neutrality Act May Be Discussed At Confab

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Ranking administration spokesmen in Congress were called to the White House today as President Roosevelt returned from Hyde Park for a conference which may well have major bearing on early enactment of the second Lend-Lease Bill totaling $5,000,000,000 and possible revision of the Neutrality Act.

Lend-Lease Coordinator Harry Hopkins had been summoned to sit with the congressional leaders. It seemed apparent, in view of Russia's hard-pressed position, that immediate and substantial war supplies were to be rushed to the Soviet government.

Responsible administration quarters are urging a modification of the Neutrality Act to facilitate this much-needed assistance if the Russian armies are to hold out against the Nazi blitzkrieg. Unless the law is revised, American merchant ships will be unable to deliver goods direct to ports in proclaimed war zones. Also, congressional action is needed if the U. S. merchant fleet is to be armed against threat of aerial, surface and sub-surface attack.

Many Leaders Called

Vice-President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, Senate Majority Leader Barkley, House Majority Leader McCormack, Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally, Rep. Woodrum (D) Va., and Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., were among the legislative group called in by the President.

The American and British missions intent on bolstering the Russian defense against the Germans have agreed in London that Stalin's forces urgently need war supplies. Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, who heads his nation's mission, already is in Moscow. W. Averell Harriman was leading the American group here for first-hand conference with the Russian high command.

Returning to Washington with Mr. Roosevelt were Crown Princess Martha and her entourage, including Mme. Ostgaard, lady-in-waiting, and Count Chamberlain Wedel. The royal Norwegians were house guests at Hyde Park over the week end.

300,000 ACRES CUT OFF WHEAT TOTAL FOR 1942

Major Reduction Disclosed By Kruse; Boost In Corn Crop Expected

PICKAWAY IS AFFECTED

More Planting Of Defense Commodities Urged By Government

Ohio's wheat farmers Monday received notice that their 1942 wheat acreage allotments would be cut some 300,000 acres.

The announcement came from Elmer A. Kruse, state AAA chairman, who said the government was increasing corn acreage allotments by 12,413 acres, or one half of one percent. The reduction in wheat acreage amounts to between 10 and 12 percent.

Kruse said the cut is intended to bring about more planting of defense crops and to avoid further congestion of now bulging wheat storage facilities.

The wheat acreage curb comes on the heels of a summer long controversy during which farmers fought payment of 49 cents a bushel penalties for excess wheat and finally got congressional action to permit feeding of wheat to stock.

The state corn acreage of the state totals about 2,482,600, but wheat runs closer to 30,000,000 acres. The reduction in wheat planting is to take effect between now and mid-October.

Kruse does not regard the increase in corn acreage as important, asserting that the increases applied only to 63 of the 88 counties and that the total is split up considerably to give more acreage to some farmers who were extremely limited.

The counties in which it applies include Auglaize, Butler, Champaign, Defiance, Franklin, Hamilton, Fulton, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Licking, Logan, Lorain, Lucas, Medina, Miami, Montgomery, Muskingum, Paulding, Pickaway, Putnam, Richland, Sandusky, Seneca, Shelby, Stark, Union, Van Wert, Wayne, Williams, Wood and Wyandot.

Rejected Man Murders Bride, Takes Own Life

CHICAGO, Sept. 22—Shortly after he had wished her "all the luck in the world," Ronald Toft, 35-year-old packing house worker, shot and killed a bride of nine hours and then killed himself, police reported today.

The bride was Mrs. Catherine Sherman, 26, who early yesterday drove to Dubuque, Ia., and was married to Lee Sherman, also 26, a clerk.

According to police, Toft had courted the young woman for five months prior to her elopement yesterday. The killing occurred last night at a wedding party in the bride's apartment at which the newlyweds were being feted by their parents and other relatives.

Earlier in the evening, Toft had joined the party and, apparently reconciled to the marriage, had shaken hands with the married couple and wished them both "all the luck in the world," then he left.

Two hours later, however, Toft climbed to a vantage point outside a window of the apartment, and when Mrs. Sherman approached a buffet table within a few feet of the window, shot her through the head with a .22 calibre rifle. Even as she fell, he turned the gun on himself. Police found his body just below the window.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The land armies of the Reich and the Soviet today were locked in two tremendous battles, the Nazis smashing southeast toward Kharkov, industrial heart of the Ukraine, while the Russians claimed to be hammering their way back to German-held Smolensk.

Berlin announced that thousands on thousands of Russians were being cut to pieces in an iron-ring east of Kiev, but London heard that Marshal Timoshenko's armies on the Central Front were battling furiously in an effort to smash their way through to relieve Marshal Budenny's sorely pressed men.

South-eastern Europe from Ankara to the northern Balkans buzzed today with rumors of a dramatic conference between Chancellor Hitler and King Boris of Bulgaria. Officials in Berlin said they had no word of a meeting said to be the prelude to Bulgaria's joining the axis armies.

Another king, one who had lost his capital and nation, George of Greece arrived on British soil today to be the guest of his namesake, King George of England. He was accompanied by Crown Prince Paul, the Greek premier and two princesses of the royal house.

Inistent rumblings of possible extension of the war to an area vital for the defense of the Americas were given substance by a warning in Vichy today by Governor General Boisson that plans have been completed to defend Dakar against "any attacker."

Submarines Operating

The man who last year held off the "Free French" forces of General DeGaulle said that Vichy-France was ready to fight off any new "naval aggression" against the port from which, it has been rumored, French submarines manned by German-speaking crews have been operating into the South Atlantic.

We need tanks, more tanks and yet more tanks... we require your urgent help."

That plea to British workmen by Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky in London set the keynotes of the war today as new German successes on the far-flung Eastern Front set wheels turning for quick and major aid to Russia.

In Britain "Tanks for Russia Week" began this morning. Every tank produced in the United Kingdom this week will be rushed immediately to the Soviet fighting front.

PAY BOOST FOR MEN IN SERVICE BEING ADVISED

Major Revision Of Draft System Being Drawn Up, Sen. Downey Says

SMALLER FORCE LIKELY

Inability To Train Capable Men In Short Time Cited For Changes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—A member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee today reported that high administration officials favor a pay boost for 2,000,000 soldiers and sailors, and forecast a major revision of Army policy, including a drastic change in the draft system.

This member, Sen. Sheridan Downey (D) Calif., said that a pay boost of perhaps $30 a month is favored by many officials as a move to equalize Army and Navy pay with that in defense industries.

The proposed new Army policy, he said, would be aimed at seeking a smaller unit—perhaps numbering 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men—with a high efficiency, youth and morale rating and a long enlistment period.

"I am reliably informed that the administration is now looking with favor on increased pay in the Army," Downey said. "I have been told that Army and administration heads are now proclaiming the necessity of additional compensation for the armed forces."

To Eliminate Draft?

"I am sure that the Army and the administration are preparing to reduce the size of the Army and get away from the draft. I think they have given up the idea of training vast numbers of recruits each year, and have worked out a tentative plan for an army of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men, who would be there long enough to be trained thoroughly for modern warfare."

The pay boost issue, Downey said, will come before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in October. The committee now has before it three bills on this subject, one of them sponsored by an administration senator.

Under present schedules army privates receive $21 the first four months, $30 the next eight months and $40 after one year. The highest base pay for an enlisted man is $125 a month for a master sergeant.

"I think they are beginning to realize the inequality between men in defense industries and the Army," Downey said. "I understand that the tentative plan is to increase the pay of army and navy enlisted men to perhaps $70 a month, and then consider 'board and room' worth $40 to $50 a month. This would about equal the minimum pay of $115 to $120 a month in defense industries."

Downey is advocating a pay boost of $30 a month, the increase to be withheld until the enlisted man is discharged. Sen. Johnson (D) Colo., has proposed a 25 percent increase in pay, while Sen. Hill (D) Ala., has proposed an investigation on the question of equalization of pay.

The proposal to revise army policy and abandon, at least temporarily, the plan to train hundreds of thousands of draftees for a short period, is said to grow out of the difficulty of training men in the art of modern warfare in a short period.

Fear that it might confront an emergency with an untrained army was given by army heads as the reason for extension of the period of service of draftees to 18 months. The Army is, however, discharging many draftees and National Guardsmen at the expiration of one year.

For months congressional committees have been told by high army officers that a draft of men from 18 to 23 years would be preferable, but yielded to the reduction in draft ages to from 21 to 28. Senate Military Affairs Committee members also recalled that General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, originally urged a two-year period of training for draftees. Men voluntarily enlisted are required to enroll for three years.

FORT KNOX, Ky., Sept. 22—

Authorities today investigated the death of Mrs. John A. Bentz, 46, of Columbus, O., in an automobile collision a few moments after she had been abducted in the presence of her son, John A. Bentz Jr., a soldier stationed at Fort Knox.

E. J. Bentz, 35, discharged filling station attendant from Vine Grove, Ky., and named by police as Mrs. Bentz' kidnaper, also was killed in the crash, as was the driver of the other car, Eugene Myers, 21, of Elizabethtown, Ky.

According to authorities, Bentz seized Mrs. Bentz near a Fort Knox supper club late yesterday, forced young Bentz and his wife out of their car, and drove off with the Columbus matron.

Military police pursued and he was driving the stolen car at high speed on the wrong side of the road when it collided with Myers' auto.

Charges of driving when under the influence of alcohol were filed at police headquarters early Sunday against two motorists.

Vall Short, 114 West Town Street, Columbus, was arrested Sunday at 3:30 a.m. on Route 22 west by state highway patrolmen. Short was driving the car of his companion, Lorin Lingo, Mt. Sterling Route 1, who was released on bond for permitting Short to drive his car.

Paul Helwagen, 314 East Mount Street, Columbus, was arrested about 3 o'clock Sunday morning by Patrolmen Elmer Merriman and Turney Ross for driving on East Main Street and South Washington Street when under the influence of alcohol. Mayor Cady fined him $300 and costs and gave him 60 days in jail.

Helwagen's arrest, his third on similar charge, took place after the car belonging to Elmer E. Clifton that he was driving struck a 1937 Studebaker parked in front of the home of A. L. Schiear, East Main Street. Helwagen was not injured in the collision, but Charles Blackston, 49, of Circleville Route 4, who was riding with him was thrown to the street, and was cut about the face and head. Blackston was fined $15 and costs for being disorderly and intoxicated, and was sent to the county jail.

Earl Clifford Gee, Grayson, Ky., confined to County Jail last week on a drunken driving charge, was released Saturday after he paid his fine of $100 and costs.

State highway officers Saturday night arrested Jennings Ogle, Grange Hall, for driving on Route 22 west without lights. He was fined $5 and costs in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges court and released.

Red Cross field directors with the second and third armies now engaged in maneuvers in Louisiana also were asked to stand by for possible relief duty.

Because of the threatened hurricane, the third air task force operating with the Red army ordered evacuation of all planes under its command in the Lake Charles area. Fast pursuit planes at New Orleans were flown away last night to Kelly and Randolph Fields, and other ships from Lake Charles followed. Large numbers of planes were in the area in connection with the war maneuvers and army officials said they were taking no chances that the ships might be wrecked should the storm hit air concentration points.

It appeared likely the storm would interfere greatly with the war games, which have been recessed until Tuesday midnight to give the soldiers a rest.

At the request of Governor John W. Bricker, Mayor W. B. Cady said Monday he would appoint a committee within the next few days to consider organizing a Defense Council in Circleville.

A letter received by Mayor Cady from Courtney Burton, executive director of the Ohio State Council of Defense, Monday, requested the Mayor to submit to Governor Bricker all available information relative to local defense councils and "to organize adequate councils at once if none had been formed."

In organizing local defense councils, the letter suggested that serious consideration be given to representation to cover rural areas, labor and industry. The local council should operate as a unit of the State Council, utilizing the facilities and coordinating the efforts of the Federal, State, municipal and private agencies in all matters pertaining to defense.

For months congressional committees have been told by high army officers that a draft of men from 18 to 23 years would be preferable, but yielded to the reduction in draft ages to from 21 to 28. Senate Military Affairs Committee members also recalled that General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, originally urged a two-year period of training for draftees. Men voluntarily enlisted are required to enroll for three years.

It seemed apparent that the United States is about to rush immediate and substantial war supplies to the Soviets.

Reports from London told of heavy British air attacks over the weekend on German cities, including Berlin, and Nazi-occupied territory aimed at forcing the Luftwaffe to ease its pressure on the Russians and defend the western aerial front.

Oesel Captured

Germany claimed capture of strategic Oesel Island, including the island capital of Arensburg, in the Baltic and said a new Nazi offensive in the southeastern Ukraine was driving against the vast Russian oil fields of the Caucasus.

East of Kiev, Berlin claimed, the bulk of four trapped Russian armies was "wiped out" by German legions which captured some 150,000 prisoners.

A rapid Nazi push to the sea of Azov was declared to have cut off the Crimean Peninsula from the Russian mainland.

Moscow conceded the loss of Kiev, but claimed a smashing victory on the Central Front, where Soviet troops were said to have recaptured a vast fortified zone including 32 villages. Reports from the front said Russian troops now are investing Smolensk.

Yesterday French Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain appealed for termination of attacks on Germans in occupied France lest "further misfortunes" befall France.

A Free French radio broadcast heard by CBS said today that tension is growing in Bulgaria in view of German attempts to use the country as a base for a drive toward the east. It added:

The Free French radio station directed this broadcast to France:

"We solemnly proclaim that for each hostage massacred, two Germans will be judged and struck down by the victorious French."

"Not two nameless Germans, but two selected from the military and civil occupational forces."

The British radio in a program heard by CBS broadcast a reply to the address by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who urged termination of attacks on Germans in occupied France. Directly addressing Petain, the British announcer said:

"In whose name are you talking when you advise to submit? In any case, not in the name of the French people, but in the name of a handful of traitors and cowards."

PAY BOOST FOR MEN IN SERVICE BEING ADVISED

Major Revision Of Draft System Being Drawn Up, Sen. Downey Says

SMALLER FORCE LIKELY

Inability To Train Capable Men In Short Time Cited For Changes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—A member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee today reported that high administration officials favor a pay boost for 2,000,000 soldiers and sailors, and forecast a major revision of Army policy, including a drastic change in the draft system.

This member, Sen. Sheridan Downey (D) Calif., said that a pay boost of perhaps $30 a month is favored by many officials as a move to equalize Army and Navy pay with that in defense industries.

The proposed new Army policy, he said, would be aimed at seeking a smaller unit—perhaps numbering 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men—with a high efficiency, youth and morale rating and a long enlistment period.

"I am reliably informed that the administration is now looking with favor on increased pay in the Army," Downey said. "I have been told that Army and administration heads are now proclaiming the necessity of additional compensation for the armed forces."

To Eliminate Draft?

"I am sure that the Army and the administration are preparing to reduce the size of the Army and get away from the draft. I think they have given up the idea of training vast numbers of recruits each year, and have worked out a tentative plan for an army of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men, who would be in there long enough to be trained thoroughly for modern warfare."

The pay boost issue, Downey said, will come before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in October. The committee now has before it three bills on this subject, one of them sponsored by an administration senator.

Under present schedules army privates receive $21 the first four months, $30 the next eight months and $40 after one year. The highest base pay for an enlisted man is $125 a month for a master sergeant.

"I think they are beginning to realize the inequality between men in defense industries and the Army," Downey said. "I understand that the tentative plan is to increase the pay of army and navy enlisted men to perhaps $70 a month, and then consider board and room worth $40 to $50 a month. This would about equal the minimum pay of $115 to $120 a month in defense industries."

Downey is advocating a pay boost of $30 a month, the increase to be withheld until the enlisted man is discharged. Sen. Johnson (D) Colo., has proposed a 25 percent increase in pay, while Sen. Hill (D) Ala., has proposed an investigation on the question of equalization of pay.

The proposal to revise army policy and abandon, at least temporarily, the plan to train hundreds of thousands of draftees for a short period, is said to grow out of the difficulty of training men in the art of modern warfare in a short period.

Fear that it might confront an emergency with an untrained army was given by army heads as the reason for extension of the period of service of draftees to 18 months. The Army is, however, discharging many draftees and National Guardsmen at the expiration of one year.

For months congressional committees have been told by high army officers that a draft of men from 18 to 23 years would be preferable, but yielded to the reduction in draft ages to from 21 to 28. Senate Military Affairs Committee members also recalled that General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, originally urged a two-year period of training for draftees. Men voluntarily enlisted are required to enroll for three years.

SEN. NYE MAY BE ARRESTED AFTER GOTHAM SPEECH

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—The arrest of Senator Gerald P. Nye—if he endorses Charles A. Lindbergh in a scheduled Brooklyn speech tonight—was demanded today by former New York Magistrate Joseph Goldstein.

Goldstein in a telegram to Mayor F. H. La Guardia asked the arrest of Nye if during his speech he backs Lindbergh's Des Moines address in which the flyer blamed the British, the Roosevelt administration, and the Jews for steering the U. S. toward war.

Goldstein said that such an endorsement would be "inciting to riot." He said he plans to attend the American First rally and personally will attempt to arrest Nye if the senator seconds Lindbergh's utterances.

The former magistrate asked for a police escort to the rally. Brooklyn police announced that a detail of 250 patrolmen had been assigned to guard the Brooklyn Academy of Music, scene of the scheduled speech.

BACK TO ABUNDANCE

HAPPY is the nation that can produce, even in these times, more farm stuff than it needs. For years we have been cursed agriculturally by abundance rather than scarcity. In some fields our standard crops became a nightmare, so that we got into the seemingly crazy custom of paying farmers for not raising things.

Now we seem to see the beginning of the end of that policy. War and widespread want abroad require a change. Wheat and cotton production will be held down, because of the continued carry-over of surpluses which cannot yet be disposed of. But in general foodstuffs, especially meat, vegetables, eggs, milk and other dairy products, the farm program announced by the Department of Agriculture calls for the largest production in our history.

One cause of this program is the rise of the average price of farm products one-third during the past year. The government wants to hold prices down. Another is the rapidly increasing need of American foodstuffs abroad. There will be no limit to the European and Asiatic demand for our food products if foreign conditions change enough to let our exports flow in freely. That seems likely to happen sooner or later.

VANDALISM

ONE serious evil that this country has to cope with is seldom found elsewhere. It is the vandalism appearing so frequently in the defacement or destruction of windows, street lights, road and street signs, outdoor monuments, and so on.

Many of these conveniences are erected for the use of the every hoodlums who wreck them, as well as the general public. The evil is seen at its worst, perhaps, in the destruction or defacement of directional signs in parks and on highways. Sometimes there seems to be a general onslaught on schoolhouse windows. Again beauty spots, public monuments and shelters in city or state parks are wrecked.

This is the sort of thing that used to be done, on a bigger scale, in the decadent period of old Roman civilization, when the Huns and Vandals moving about in large numbers destroyed apparently for the mere joy of destruction. What should make our young American act so barbarously? And how is it going to be stopped?

WORLD AT A GLANCE . . . . .

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

NO PICTURE of the Duke of Kent's visit to the National Press Club, as an incident of his visit in Washington not long ago, are available.

The duke, as I suppose most folk know, is the king of England's brother. His recent trip to our side of the Atlantic was undertaken in connection with western hemisphere aid to his embattled home country. After dropping in at Hyde Park to see President Roosevelt, who was Sundaying there, he accompanied F. D. to our capital, to dine at the White House and see the sights.

Among other things, he wanted to meet Washington newspaper correspondents, thinking it would be good publicity for John Bull.

The board of governors promptly invited him to meet 'em in the Press club lounge. It was an ideal arrangement. The duke accepted it delightedly. The club management rushed to fix up the lounge appropriately. A comfortable sofa was backed up into a corner for his grace's occupancy, facing the scribes, gathered to interview him.

The British colors (Union Jack) were provided to drape on the wall, just above and behind the seated and distinguished guest's head.

The event was pulled off in great style. Several photos of it were shot. Then why aren't they available for publication now? Why, the fact is that they were suppressed. Washington simply was ransacked for the negatives.

Apparently the seekers for 'em found 'em all and destroyed 'em in hot haste. I can't discover that one of 'em remains.

Why?

If it was publicity the duke wanted, it would seem as if those pictures, in print, should have been hot stuff.

Yes, but what the duke wanted was publicity of the RIGHT KIND.

Those pictures scarcely would have filled the bill.

UPSIDE DOWN

The secret is that the club attendant who draped the Union Jack, not being familiar with the British colors, inadvertently draped the flag bottom side up.

"IN THE POTOMAC"

Other smiles originate on the strength of the news that Japan Premier Fumimaro Konoye has been trying to arrange a personal meeting with President Roosevelt on a Japanese warship somewhere in the Pacific. The nub of the job is that the Japs are so notoriously imitative of Occidental ways. It's taken as a fair conclusion that, following F. D.'s chat in the Atlantic with Winston Churchill, Fumimaro's dying to tie Winston Washington's account is that Secretary Hull told him F. D.'s willing enough to confer, but that he'd rather do it in the Potomac than "somewhere in the Pacific."

Getting back to the subject of flags—

Herr Hitler's said to be cooking one up consisting of a blend of the flags of all the nationalities he contemplates assimilating, with the Nazis' emblem predominating, of course.

Washington's National Press Club would like to see how that combination would look draped bottom side up.

completely dead. The cable remarked that this newspaperman has been under close surveillance ever since. The prospective would-be assassin evidently was slow on his job.

Some laughs also are created by the Moscow story that Herr Hitler, at his last conference with Signor Mussolini, "appealed" to Benito to help the Nazis with more Italian soldiers on the Nazis' Russian front. "Appealed?" Anytime Adolf wants anything from Benito, Washington's reckoning is that he issues it as an order—not that he hands it out as an appeal.

Now, the country's flag (our own, Britain's or any other nation's) floating upside down, is a recognized signal of distress. Considering Britain's present fit and the purpose of the duke's visit on this side of the water, to stir up American all-aid to John Bull, that distress signal not only was appropriate—it was too DARNED appropriate to be suitable advertising.

Hence, no photographs.

A lot of such funny things happened.

For instance, does the reader notice the recent attempt, in Tokyo, to assassinate Vice Premier Kichiro Hiranuma, a Japanese who has been antagonistic to his country's tie-up with the European Axis? Well, it was attempted anyway, and the other day I noticed a Tokyo dispatch to the effect that news of it "leaked out prematurely." That is to say, it leaked out before the attempt was made. In other words, the night before the vice premier was shot at, an Axis correspondent at the Japanese capital called up the police to inquire if Minister Hiranuma had been killed.

The event was pulled off in great style. Several photos of it were shot. Then why aren't they available for publication now? Why, the fact is that they were suppressed. Washington simply was ransacked for the negatives.

ARMY MORALE IS HIGH

WITH SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA There is nothing basically wrong with the morale of this man's army. It is as patriotic, as courageous and as spirited as any army in U. S. history. Also, it is a lot better fit, better taken care of, equipped and trained than was the AEF when it went to France.

There is still a lot of griping among the selectees over the Service Extension Act. Most of them don't like it and make no bones about how they feel. But in frankly expressing their opinions they draw a sharp distinction between the desire to return to civilian life at the end of one year and the question of training a citizen army.

On the subject of the Extension Act the general feeling seems to be that as conditions may work out they will be called on to serve longer than those inducted this year or next. With typical American individualism they insist on everyone getting the same deal. They don't want to be the "goats." But at the same time they make it very clear that they approve of preparing for any eventuality, the defense program and aid to all enemies of Hitler.

FAVOR COMPULSORY TRAINING

In talking the past week to scores of these citizen soldiers from every walk of life, every part of the country and in every branch of the army, there was never once a word of intimation of objection to the Selective Training Act itself, the defense program or the President's anti-Axis policies.

These youths don't care for soldiering as a way of life; but they definitely do approve of the desirability of training an army big enough to defend their country. Many said they favored compulsory military training of one year duration between the ages of 18 and 21 as a permanent system. These youths also don't want to fight in a "foreign war"; but they are not isolationists. The America First Committee element draws no cheers from them. Very bitter opinions were voiced about Wheeler and Lindbergh, particularly the latter.

These youths want no part of a "foreign war," but they are prepared to fight at the drop of the hat if their country is in danger. And they believe that it is in danger. The Wheeler-Lindbergh thesis that the country need not worry about an Axis attack they dismiss with a short, blunt word. In their training they have learned enough about the speed and scope of blitz warfare to know that the Atlantic and Pacific do not make us immune from foreign invasion. These boys have no illusions about modern warfare—and no politician or ex-hero is kidding them about it.

That's why they are for all the lend-lease aid necessary to lick Hitler in Europe if possible. They are red-hot Russian partisans and follow avidly what is transpiring on the Titanic Eastern front. Invariably.

Football Here Again

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Now that the 1941 football season is getting started and probably only a few deaths or permanent injuries for life have occurred, it may have some precautionary value to recall some of the details of the 1940 season.

In a previous article I emphasized that it was particularly hazardous for boys of grade school and high school age to play football because their bones have not finished development and they are especially liable to permanent injury. Here are some examples:

A boy, seven years old, in Minneapolis, suffered a fractured collar bone in a football game. A nine-year-old in San Bernardino, California, had his left arm fractured. A ten-year-old in Oklahoma suffered a severe neck injury. A ten-year-old at Beloit, Kansas, had his leg broken. An eleven-year-old, at Kearney, Nebraska, had a leg broken near the ankle. A thirteen-year-old in Seattle had a broken jaw. A seventeen-year-old boy in Wisconsin suffered a ruptured kidney. A boy (age not recorded) had a broken thigh. Three other fractured legs at the ankle, one involving both leg bones in boys under fourteen. A Kansas youth had some of his teeth knocked out.

Some halfbacks didn't come up to expectations last season because of a continuous struggle against recurring injuries sustained in early season scrimmages.

A sixteen-year-old boy had his leg amputated at the knee. We are told that if we had asked him if he and fully survived the injury, would he have ventured on the football field again—"The chances of his saying no are about as strong as a Kentucky thoroughbred placing last at a side show race track. It takes more than a broken leg to break the spirit of American youth."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. F.: "In my family there is a diabetic case who has had diabetes for eight years and during that time four children have been born. Will this be inherited by the children?"

Answer: Joslin's statistics on the occurrence of diabetes in the children of diabetic fathers and mothers do not indicate any hereditary tendency. Diabetes in elderly people past the child-bearing period is due to arterial changes in the pancreas. This may be hereditary, but only shows up when the children are themselves old.

Asters, in a variety of lovely shades, and white cathedral candles decorated the altar before which the wedding vows were exchanged.

The bride chose for her wedding a smart fall outfit of defense blue, fashioned two-piece style. Her off-the-face hat of wine felt was matched in color by her other accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of white and wine dwarf asters. She carried a white prayer book and pearl rosary, the gifts of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lee F. Linehan of Caragher was the bride's only attendant, Mr. Linehan serving as best man for his brother. Wine, with brown accessories, was worn by Mrs. Linehan, her corsage being of white dwarf asters.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Harold Dowling, violinist, and Miss Ursula Klein, church organist, offered a program of nuptial music. Mr. and Mrs. Pickel entertained the bridal party, close friends and relatives at a wedding breakfast at 11:30 a.m. at the Christman Hotel House of Delta.

The guests were served at two tables, candles and asters forming the decorations. The wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was cut by the new Mrs. Linehan, who served her bridegroom the first slice.

The couple left immediately after the breakfast for a wedding trip through the South, the bride wearing a tweed sport suit for traveling. When they return, they will reside for the present with their parents near Swanton.

The former Miss Pickel was graduated from Circleville High School in the class of 1940 and is also a graduate of the Berkley School of Cosmetology of Toledo.

Cookbooklet of the Week

New Ways To Serve Poultry Described In Fourth Cookbook Out Today!

Properly seasoned and stuffed, Roast Duck is good eating at its best. Follow the suggestions in the Duck Section of the new Poultry Book for satisfactory results.

The way you usually serve fowl and frying all kinds of poultry are undoubtedly very satisfactory, but why not develop the art of cooking poultry to the full extent of its versatility? To add to the accepted and proved ways of cooking your favorite fowl, you'll find hundreds of modern, original suggestions in the newest Cookbook, "250 Ways to Prepare Poultry and Game Birds," fourth in the Herald's series coming to you a booklet each week.

The most delicious and effective ways of roasting, broiling, stewing and frying all kinds of poultry are described. The simple recipes for loaves, pies, casseroles, short cakes, salads, creamed dishes and many others will prompt you to get far ahead in your meal planning.

Detailed information and wonderfully clear illustrations show how to truss and French-bone poultry for roasting; the modern way of boning and rolling a turkey; your grandmother's method of skinning a goose, and hundreds of other suggestions that simplify the preparation of poultry.

If you want to be a neat and skillful carver, study the illustrations that show how easy you can master this art. You'll really find the Poultry Book the most complete handbook on the subject you've ever seen.

Besides the marvelous variety of chicken recipes, there are special sections for Poultry Livers, Ducks, Geese, Turkeys, Pigeons and Squabs, Quail, Wild Ducks and other game.

The Miscellaneous section takes care of such matters as unusual poultry stuffings, gravies and there's even a classic recipe for Baking Powder Biscuits.

Today the price of poultry is not as high and more homes can afford to serve it more frequently for family dinners and special occasions.

This new Cookbook will help you serve it in greater variety—you'll find countless economical short cuts as well as unique menu suggestions for every type of meal you serve.

Your copy of "250 Ways to Prepare Poultry and Game Birds," as well as the first three booklets in the series may be obtained by presenting ten cents at any of these stores: North End Market, Griffith & Martin, Weiler's Grocery, Brink's Market, Harpster & Yost Hardware, Griffith's Food Market, Blue & White Malted Milk, Wallace Bakery, Steele's Produce, R. & R. Furniture Company, Hill Implement Company, Clarence Wolf Grocery, Winner's Grocery or Griffith's Grocery and Meat Market.

As shown today's Garden-Graph, when moving plants to another location, disturb the roots as little as possible. Leave a good ball of earth about the roots, as illustrated, and place them as quickly as possible in the new location. Practically all perennials which have not died down by transplanting time should be trimmed to about six inches before transplanting. The soil in the new hole in which the plant is being placed should be dug deeply. It should also be at least as rich as the soil from which the plant has been lifted.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, September 22

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of operations and aims of major scope and objectives, with great ambitions and efficiency reaching desired goals. Enterprise, initiative and ambition all move to high levels of expression, under fiery impetus of forces and faculties. The danger is that such may be carried beyond bounds, by rash words or violent deeds precipitating physical dangers. Be calm.

COUNTY'S SOY BEAN HARVEST TO BE IN FULL SWING THIS WEEK

PRICE OF $1.53 PREVAILING AS CUTTING STARTS

More Than $72,000 To Be Turned Over To Local Crop Planters

AVERAGE YIELD HIGHER

Fly Free Date Established For September 30 In Pickaway Area

Pickaway County's big soy bean harvest, expected to put more than $72,000 into the pockets of district farmers, will be in full swing before the end of the present week.

Price for soy beans this year is higher than it has been for some time, the total acreage is greater than last year, and the yield is expected to be higher.

A few farmers have already harvested their beans, Circleville mills reporting buying beans in the earlier part of the month, but this week and next will see the greater part harvested.

F. K. Blair, county agricultural agent, estimated Monday that soy beans throughout the county would bring an average yield of 15 or 17 bushels to the acre. Last year there were about 8,000 acres of the crop harvested and about 7,000 cut for hay. With the price Monday at $1.53 and the demand for beans greater than last year due to the defense program, farmers this year may make more money on their soy beans than on any other crop.

Dry weather has cut the yield somewhat, but it is still expected to be greater than the 12 to 15 bushels to the acre yield last year.

Replacing Wheat

Soy beans in the county are taking the place of wheat on some farms, Mr. Blair reports. When the crop is cut for hay or when it is plowed under it is non-depleting, although when it is harvested the crop does deplete the soil, according to the county agent.

Under the government's new farm program for next year, raising of soy beans probably will be encouraged. Not only are the beans used for feed, but their oils and byproducts find an important role in the manufacture of defense products. Demand for soy beans is expected to keep the price above normal this year, although the new harvest may force prices down from their unusually high mark of the present.

With the fly free date for planting set for September 30, some farmers will disk their harvested soy bean fields and plant them to wheat.

HENRY YOUTH LEAVES ON FIRST LEG OF ARMY TRIP

Milton Henry, 586 East Franklin Street, was sent to Fort Hayes, Columbus, Monday, opening a period which will see more than fifty registrants called into service before another month.

In one week, September 29, a contingent of eight will be sent to the induction center. In the contingent will be four 21-year-olds, the first to leave the county under the Selective Service Act.

Local draft headquarters has received a tentative call for 47 men on the period beginning October 6, and although the date for the call has not been officially confirmed the contingent is expected to leave on or shortly after that date.

Local Selective Service officials also have received a tentative call for one colored registrant on the period beginning October 8.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO HAVE KIWANIS PROGRAM

Kiwanis club members will be treated to an entertaining and informative program Monday evening in Hanley's tearoom when F. K. Blair takes several leading 4-H Club members to the meeting to discuss their 4-H projects. The meeting starts at 6:30.

Pickaway Students Begin Freshman Week At O.S.U.

Pickaway County youths who are members of Ohio State University's new freshman class this week start their college careers.

From the time that the campus chimes signal the opening of Freshman Week Wednesday at 3 p.m., the new students will have the campus to themselves until the opening of classroom work Tuesday.

This year's freshman class numbers 3,000. It and the upper classes as well show a slight decline from last year, resulting from present abnormal conditions.

For Freshman Week each beginning student from Pickaway County has a schedule of his own, worked out for him by a faculty committee. By it the new student is helped to get many of the preliminaries out of the way, make new friends, and become acquainted with the campus before the actual beginning of classes.

He will take physical, psychological, and placement tests, try out for various musical and other extracurricular activities, attend receptions and special services in university district churches, attend lectures on university history, and attend a dance or two if he likes. Fraternity and sorority rushing will be in full swing.

Not the least of the week's events will be Ohio State's opening football game with Missouri Saturday, September 27.

SHEA AT STATE CONFAB OF LEGION ACTIVITY GROUP

James T. Shea, commander of Howard Hall Post American Legion, attended a state-wide meeting of the Junior Activities Committee of the Legion at the Deshler-Wallack Hotel, Columbus, Sunday, during which the organization's program for the next year was discussed.

Mr. Shea said that the Legion will continue to foster an essay contest, which has proved such a success, and the Boys' State, another highlight of each year. Several other questions of importance were discussed.

He represents the Seventh Ohio district on the committee.

The desertion rate among the citizen soldiers is the lowest in the peacetime history of the U. S. Army. Even the AWOL rate is extraordinarily small.

At one time it was so infinitesimal in the 27th Division, the outfit reputed to have the lowest in morale in the 2nd Army, that a special inspector was sent from Washington by the War Department to investigate whether the situation was as good as reported. It was as good.

Also the 450,000 men engaged have been in the field in divisional and intra-army maneuvers for two months. They have been able to bathe infrequently, have had to wash their own clothes, to eat on the fly. Movies and recreation have been rare. Yet the boys entered into these games with all the zest and verve of a champion ship football game.

Under plans announced by State Selective Service Headquarters, all returning soldiers desiring assistance in finding jobs will report to the reemployment committeemen of their draft boards. The reemployment committeemen, in turn, will endeavor to return those soldiers who held jobs prior to induction to their old positions. The records of those who had no jobs, as well as those who seek new positions, will be turned over to the nearest employment security center. Here the men must register so that their qualifications for jobs may be determined.

Although it is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in placing returning trainees in jobs in view of the demand of defense industries for workers, Manager Duncan pointed out that an additional safeguard in the form of unemployment compensation is provided many soldiers under amendments, effective October 1, to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation law.

By these amendments, benefit rights of those Ohioans who entered Military Service since March 31, 1940, are "frozen" pending their return to civilian life. Thus an Ohioan will have the same benefit rights when he completes his military service as when he entered the service, and may draw benefits after filing a valid claim. The waiting period is not required with respect to the first year of a trainee. Without the amendments he would have lost his benefit rights by lapse of time, Manager Duncan explained.
